

History - week beginning 29th June 2020

Now is your chance to become a historian! So much of what we know about history comes from the writing and drawings that people at the time left behind- Samuel Peeps' diary tells us all about the Great Fire of London and Anne Frank's diary taught us what life was like during German occupation in the Second World War. Now it is your chance to become a historian!

Use these ideas, plus any more of your own, to create your account of what life is like in England during 'The Lockdown 2020-covid19.' Believe it or not, what you are experiencing now, people will learn about in the future. Your present will be someone else's history! You can bury your capsule in your garden, or bring them into school when we return and we will bury a 'Woodham Walter' capsule for the children of the future.

Any evidence of work, pictures or videos, or even just one piece of work you are really proud of from learning this week, please upload to Class Dojo.

Resources to aid with your time capsule—see separate word document on website.
